by Shawn Wiles for Monticello Raceway

Monticello, NY --- On Wednesday afternoon September 2, Monticello Raceway hosted the last leg of the New York Sire Stakes program, the NY County Fair Finals. Each of the eight divisions raced for a purse of $10,000. Also on the card, was the RUS - New York Fair Series Championship, this was a non-wagering event that was conducted between the sixth and seventh race.

It was an afternoon of double and triples, Jimmy Devaux and James Taggart Jr. each had 3 driving wins. Bruce Aldrich and Truman Gale had two wins a piece, and the combination of trainer David Dewhurst and owner Phillip Hale accounted for another two win pictures.

The RUS event was one of the most competitive races of the afternoon. Five horses went to post for the $2,500 non-wagering race. Iron Will made a break in the middle of the paddock turn before the start and was out of contention early. My Friend Charlie and rider Andrea Pratt, starting from post position three, went right to the lead and took the field past the first stanza in 31.3 and had six lengths on the field. The length of margin remained the same at the half in 1:03.4. By this time, Iron Will, who broke at the start, made up about 20 length's and was ranging into contention at the three-quarter pole parked first-over, passing that station in 1:36.1. At the top of the stretch Iron Will did gain a slight advantage over My Friend Charlie, but the recovery faltered as he made a break in the middle of the stretch. My Friend Charlie won in 2:09.2, almost rewriting the record books for the mile event.

When reached later, winning rider Andrea Pratt was still riding the wave of excitement after winning her first RUS event. "The track was fast and in very good condition" remarked Pratt. "I thought it was a fairly open race and it worked out well for me as I had a good trip" said Andrea. She is also the trainer of My Friend Charlie, "He is a big strong horse" comment Andrea.
