The NYSS is planning to race events safely this summer, contingent on guidance from state and federal government agencies. Under current conditions, we must acknowledge that it may not be possible to offer a full complement of 8 legs for each of our divisions. We hope to give horsemen and women some certainty by announcing any changes or rescheduling of events on an ongoing basis.

“Our goal is to preserve as many of our scheduled race dates as possible. We will work with the state regulators and racetrack to devise the best plan possible for racing,” said Kelly Young, executive director of the Agriculture & New York State Horse Breeding Development Fund. “We realize that horsemen and women are in other states for training and will need to get qualified and will factor that in to the first race date.”

The NYSS appreciates the understanding of its horsemen and women and will continue to send updates as we navigate the future of this racing season. If you have any questions or concerns, please contact the NYSS by email at info@nysirestakes.com or call 518-388-0178.
